Federal Bill Would Guard Against New Legal Theories

The number one stressor under “Professional Issues” was excessive work volume, followed by burnout and stress. The number one issue was excessive work hours, followed by lack of personal time.

If you have taken advantage of the additional coverage that the federal health care reform act could provide you and you regard the additional coverage, you have already designated as "MAA," then you must inform your insurer of the new designation at least 15 days before the effective date of the new designation. If you do not provide this notice, your insurer may deny you new coverage or a change in your designated provider of care.

Beneficiary Designation for Term Life Coverage

By now you have received information about the Medicare Prescription Drug Improvement and Modernization Act of 2003 (MMA) and the importance of naming a beneficiary. This benefit is valuable and if you do not name a beneficiary under the additional coverage, you have already designated as "MAA," then you must inform your insurer of the new designation at least 15 days before the effective date of the new designation. If you do not provide this notice, your insurer may deny you new coverage or a change in your designated provider of care.

We encourage you to print out and fill in a designated beneficiary form and send it to your insurer. This will help ensure that the designated beneficiary will receive the benefits at the time of your death.

In the end, CAP members revealed that they are most interested in wellness-related educational topics in the area of financial health and work/life balance issues. When CAP physicians thought about stressors in the area of financial health and work/life balance issues, the number one issue was “Professional Issues.” It was followed by:
